

Josh Guyan, FCC Requires Mobile Phone Manufacturers and Service Providers to Make Internet Browsers Accessible to the Blind and Visually Impaired by October 2013 , Telecom Law Monitor, May. 7, 2013,(<http://www.telecomlawmonitor.com/2013/05/articles/fcc/fcc-requires-mobile-phone-manufacturers-and-service-providers-to-make-internet-browsers-accessible-to-the-blind-and-visually-impaired-by-october-2013/>) (May 9, 2013)
Maria T. Browne and Bradley W. Guyton, FCC Releases Rules Requiring Accessibility of Browsers, Davis Wright Tremaine LLP, (May. 1, 2013), <http://www.dwt.com/FCC-Releases-Rules-Requiring-Accessibility-of-Browsers-05-01-2013/> (last visited May 9, 2013).
FCC, Section 718 Accessible Internet Browsers on Mobile Phones (Apr. 29, 2013), <http://www.fcc.gov/document/section-718-accessibility-requirements-internet-browsers-mobile> (last visited May 10, 2013).

The Commission declined either to require support for an accessibility application programming interface (API) in mobile phones, or to recognize the use of an accessibility API as a safe harbor.

 推薦文章